

Died.

John Riley Cooper, of Hoosier, died on Tuesday after an illness of about three weeks with pneumonia. Mr. Cooper's death was a surprise to his many friends as he had been improving for several days, and his complete recovery was confidently expected, but he suffered a relapse Monday night.

Mr. Cooper was a man admired, respected and esteemed by all. He was broadminded, liberal and generous, a good business man, and always full of energy.

He was a member of the Missionary Baptist church, a Mason and an I. O. O. F., in all of which he was valued for his activity and liberality.

The funeral was conducted by Elder McKinnies at Coles Chapel on Wednesday after which the interment, under the management of the Louisville Masonic Lodge, took place at the Cooper Cemetery.
